Places to visit

From classic seaside towns to the unique quirkiness of Portmeirion, there are so many interesting and unusual places to visit in North Wales that you might struggle to choose! Luckily, that's where our local team come in – we've asked them to recommend the best North Wales has to offer and they've come back with some corkers, ranging from expansive beaches to the forests of Snowdonia.

Things to do

There's more than one way to shoe a horse, and indeed there's more than one way to climb Snowdon as well – just one of our top things to do in North Wales is the famous mountain railway, but our local guide also features Italian terrace gardens, and some of Wales' wildest wildlife. Put together by our local team, this is the best of North Wales as written by the North Welsh.

We've partnered with ViewRanger to create walking and cycling routes for all levels of ability – tap here for more info.

THE BEST OF OUR GROUNDS AND GARDENS

You don't have to walk far to enjoy unspoilt views of the North Wales countryside – Bodelwyddan Castle looks out onto open fields with mountains and the Irish Sea also in view. Our gardens are home to their own little delights too, which you can discover on a tour with our grounds team or at your leisure.

Walled garden

Our walled garden here at Bodelwyddan is a little bit special – a wander around the perimeter will reveal holes where fires were once lit, heating the wall to provide an even warmer sheltered climate for the plants growing within, including a 400-year-old mulberry tree.

Wisteria Arch

In late spring and early summer, guests can catch our wisteria arch and wall in all their glory. It's a beautiful photo opportunity.

East Lawn castle view

Take a little wander around the edge of our grounds and down onto the East Lawn to be greeted by this picture-perfect view of Bodelwyddan Castle in all its glory standing against the North Wales skyline.

TOWNS AND VILLAGES

From seaside resorts to the adrenaline capital of Wales, shopping outlets and a trail through Wonderland, there are plenty of towns and villages to explore around Bodelwyddan Castle.

Llandudno

The largest seaside resort in Wales, Llandudno is famous for its nearly two-mile Parade, Grade II listed pier with all the classic holiday elements you'd expect, Happy Valley gardens and chairlift, and amusement arcades. Everything you'd want from a day at the beach.

Rhos-on-Sea / Colwyn Bay Beach

Nestled between Llandudno and Colwyn Bay, the harbour of Rhos-on-Sea is reminiscent of a traditional Welsh coastal village. The town is home to St Trillo's Chapel, the smallest church in Britain with a capacity of only six, and the Harlequin Puppet Theatre, the only venue designed and built for puppets.

Portmeirion

Perhaps most famous as the location of 1960s TV show 'The Prisoner', Portmeirion was designed and built in the style of an Italian village between 1925 and 1975, and is now one of North Wales' premier tourist destinations, with several cafés, tea rooms, and an Italian-style homemade gelato shop.

BEACHES AND THE OUTDOORS

North Wales is famous for its mountain ranges and fresh air, but look a little closer and you'll be amazed at what surprises it has in store. We asked our team to recommend some of the 'hidden gems' of North Wales, and this is what they came up with:

Isle of Anglesey – Llanddwyn Beach

Anglesey is home to a staggering 125 miles of coastline (including our personal favourite, Llanddwyn Beach) with a network of walking routes for all levels of fitness. Trekking between dense forest and the mountains of Snowdonia, this is a hiker's heaven, a walker's wonderland, and a pedestrian's paradise.

CASTLES OF NORTH WALES

Caernarfon Castle

Built in the 1280 by Edward I, who together with his military architect Master James of St George erected a castle, town walls and a quay all at the same time. This gigantic building project eventually took 47 years and cost a staggering £25,000 – over £17,000,000 in today's money!

VIEWRANGER AT BODELWYDDAN CASTLE

What is ViewRanger?

ViewRanger is one of the world's leading digital exploring guides, available for all Apple and Android devices, that lets you explore local areas on foot or by bike like never before. We've joined forces to provide a few routes around our hotels and villages for all levels of fitness. With ViewRanger you can follow the map with or without a data connection, with viewpoints, interesting attractions and helpful advice along the way.

How do I download ViewRanger?

It couldn't be simpler!

- 1 Go to your phone or tablet's app store
- 2 Search for "ViewRanger" and download "ViewRanger - Hiking Trails & Bike Rides" by Augmentra
- 3 Use the below web address or scan the QR code and it'll open up with our selection of routes for Bodelwyddan Castle (it's up to you whether to create an account, although we do recommend it).

How do I get going?

Simply tap the signpost button in the top left corner of the app and select your chosen route. You can do this from the starting point or back at the hotel, and you can even download the route so there's no need to use up your data allowance while you're wandering.

All of the routes are self-guided so that you can do them at a time and pace that suits you. Here are a few tips to help you enjoy your adventure:

- Check the weather and be prepared with wet weather gear, or a coat, hat and maybe sunscreen when necessary
- Wear sensible shoes or walking boots, most of our routes are on well-worn paths, tracks, trails or woodland and pastoral land. There might be some muddy areas, gates or stiles to cross
- Pack a bottle of water, not all routes have a café or pub en-route
- Capture the beautiful countryside with your camera
- Take your mobile phone just in case of emergency
